1. Explain, with reference to the context, the following :

(a) Last scene of all,

That ends this strange eventful history,
Is second childishness, and mere oblivion,
Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.

Or, His state

Is kingly, thousands at His bidding speed
And post o'er land and ocean without rest;
They also serve who only stand and wait.

(b) Society ! Do you think I don't know that I'm only tolerated for my money ?
Society can't and injury to insult and have my money as well, that's all.

Or, You called me a damned Jew. My race was old when you were all savages. I am proud to be a Jew.

4. Evaluate either Wordsworth or John Donne as a poet.

Or, Comment on the plot-construction of Loyalties.

5. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below :

Do not study for too long at once. So long as the mind acts with ease, it may be allowed to continue working, but if we find that it moves slowly and extra trouble is needed to keep the attention fixed, it is far better to break off and take a walk or some other recreation than go plodding on until one feels wholly exhausted. To continue forcing the mind to work is likely to lead to furious, results and may end in a nervous breakdown. Violent exercise which causes bodily weariness is not what is wanted; for with a tired body, little mental peace is possible. Useful exercise as a change for study should give energy, not exhaust it.

(i) When is physical exercise necessary ?

(ii) What danger is there working with a tired mind ?

(iii) What kind of exercise is needed ?

(iv) What principle should be followed while studying ?
